

So This Is Spring!

Snow and Cold Mark Debut Here
To Make Big Liar Out of Calendar

Spring rode into Fayette County Wednesday with a swirl of snow and freezing weather -- an appropriate entry considering the bitter winter just past.

There was scarcely a resident of the county who wouldn't trade the day for a more springlike day--one which would bring promise of an end to a long season of near record snowfalls, icy streets and sub zero temperatures.

Even though the day did not match the dreams of Fayette Countians, they went ahead with determination to come out with their Easter finery on Easter Sunday, come wind, rain, snow or sun.

There were hopes that blue skies, sun and green grass would soon come to provide the appropriate atmosphere for the season of spring housecleaning, gardening, graduation and Easter parading.

The mercury at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning was 27 degrees, no improvement over the same temperature Tuesday night. Snow was falling steadily until about noon Wednesday.

Little improvement was promised by the weatherman. Light snow, a low of 20 degrees Wednesday night and a high of around 36 was forecast.

(By The Associated Press) Spring arrived today and found winter making a liar out of the calendar. Spring's fresh, gentle breezes were missing except for a few spots in the deep south and in the far southwest.

Temperatures were below normal over most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation. It was cold in the central part of the country from the northern Rockies to the northern Appalachians.

Icy blasts sent temperatures down below zero over midwest areas. It was -8 at Bismarck, N. D., -7 at Sioux Falls, S. D., and Grantsburg, Wis., -3 at Norfolk, Neb., -2 at Mason City, Ia., and Duluth, Minn. snow was hip-deep over some of the area.

In Cincinnati one-tenth of an inch of snow fell, raising the total for 1950-51 to 40.2 inches -- just 2 of an inch short of the all time record set in 1909-10.

The cold air from the midwest moved south and eastward. Temperatures were at or below freezing over many areas as spring made its official entry at 5:26 A. M. EST.

Americans Killed By Filipino Huks

MANILA, March 21 —(P)—An eyewitness today told U. S. Ambassador Myron M. Cowen an American couple and an Australian were shot to death last night by Communist-led Hukbalahaps who raided their dairy farm 15 miles east of Manila.

Army patrols directed by Defense Secretary Ramon Magsaysay clashed with 50 Huks, reported to be the raiding band. The Huks escaped.

The slain Americans were John Hardie, a native of Condon, Ore., his wife, Irene Wilkins Hardie, reported a native of Hilmar, Calif., and Australian Donald Capuano, their farm manager.

Paul Day, a mechanic at the dairy, said 50 Huks looted the place, then left a 10-man execution squad which tied their victims' hands, marched them into the yard and shot them down with automatic weapons.

Day said he and 35 Filipino employees were kept under guard while the Huks looted the place, then killed the three.

Car-train Crash

MEDINA, March 21 —(P)—Three persons were killed yesterday when the car in which they were riding was struck by an Akron, Canton & Youngstown train here. Dead were the driver, Everett Higgins, 57, Mrs. Bernice Jones, 43, and her son, Fred, 5, all of nearby Spencer Township.

We had planned to publish the picture Monday, but you know what happened. It snowed. Since we can't use the picture (snow is a common sight this week) we will tell about Thornhill's discovery. He found the chunk of November snow in a coal pile back of the Washington Coal Co.

He knew that it was November snow since more coal was dumped on the pile shortly after the blizzard. The coal acted as a shield from the sun and kept the snow from melting even during some of the premature spring weather we had earlier in the month. It's still there, but there has been a new addition--some March snow.

CRIME KING CLAMS UP AGAIN

Another Government Loan Agency Under Fire--New Scandal Scented

$7,800,000 Loan on $600 Cash Investment
Starts Hunt for "Questionable Practices"

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21—(P)—House investigators spurred by a proposed loan of $7,800,000 to a group which put up only $600 cash were off today on a new hunt for "questionable practices" in government lending--this time by the defense setup.

The House probers aimed their queries at the National Production Authority (NPA), blaming it for approving a loan turned down by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC)--which itself is under heavy fire from Senate investigators.

Directly involved are a number of the 19 defense loans approved by the NPA since the start of the national emergency.

The investigation stemmed from committee testimony that NPA--overriding a strongly adverse recommendation of the RFC--okayed a $7,800,000 loan application by a Hazleton, Pa., group which put up only $600 of its own money.

The loan was for the Hazleton Steel Tubing Co., on application of its three principal stockholders --Benjamin S. Dowd, Martin C. Charles and James H. Hopkins.

Although approved by NPA, the loan has yet to be made because the principals have not yet put up another $1,000,000 private capital to meet NPA requirements.

Chairman Hardy (D-Va) of the House expenditures subcommittee charged it was a $600 venture which would make the applicants "multi-millionaires" with a paid-up plant after five years.

RFC Tug-of-War
Meanwhile, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate expenditures committee proposed today President Truman withdraw temporarily his hotly disputed plan to revamp the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He said Congress should be allowed to work out its own solution to the fate of RFC, huge government lending agency. A Senate banking subcommittee contends the RFC has fallen under the control of an influence ring with White House contacts.

McClellan made his suggestion as his committee opened public hearings on the president's proposal to abolish the five-man RFC board of directors and put the agency under a single administrator.

"This plan should be withdrawn temporarily," McClellan said. Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the full banking committee who spoke as the lead off witness, said he thought that "might be a good idea."

In advance of hearings before the Senate expenditures committee, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told a reporter: "the reorganization plan appears in some danger of being defeated because of growing sentiment for complete abolition of RFC."

Foes of Mr. Truman's plan to wipe out the RFC's five man board of directors and install a man administrator in their place, had the first inning before McClellan's committee. He declined to express his personal views on the proposal.

The labor meetings here yesterday and today are aimed at enlisting the support of community groups, through the local and state leaders attending, behind the united labor policy committee's fight.

CIO President Philip Murray said the management groups which opposed giving a newly-formed Wage Stabilization Board power to settle all kinds of disputes wanted to force workers "into a narrow, blind alley."

"On the one side, a rigid, unbending wage formula," Murray said. "On the other side, the malicious, provocative provisions of the Taft-Hartley anti-labor law."

Murray said a coalition in Congress produced "an inefficient specimen of law" in the defense production act. He added:

"It is cumbersome and ineffective. It cannot keep prices down, and in many sectors of the economy, it does not even try. It is made to order for the exploiter, the profiteer and the speculator."

NEW YORK, Mar. 21—(P)—The American Broadcasting Company and the DuMont network plan to televise the Senate crime hearings from Washington starting tomorrow.

The committee finishes its widely-telecast New York City hearings today, and then moves back to the nation's capital.

DuMont and ABC announced their plans last night. The National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System did not say whether they would carry the Washington hearings.

Most of the stoppages were aimed directly at the government, by far France's biggest employer. Unions of all political alignments were taking part, reflecting widespread discontent with rapidly rising prices and the cabinet's hesitancy to raise wages.

The Communist-controlled General Federation of Labor, leader in many strikes of a political nature in the past, was again involved but was not always the leader.

Services curtailed by the walkouts are: gas, electricity, railroads, subway and bus transportation, civil services, hotels and restaurants, metal industry and funerals.

Red Stronghold Taken By Yank Tank Force

TANK-LED UN PATROLS probed ahead from five unnamed main points 17 miles below the 38th parallel in Korea (shaded zone) in a hunt for the enemy's principal forces. UN forces fanned out along three roads north of Seoul and routed a Red force on road to Kaesong (1). U. S. 5th Air Force flyers dispersed a foe concentration near Kapyong (2). Enemy movements, possibly with new attacks planned, were noted near Uijongbu (3). The enemy has abandoned defense line west from Hongchon (4). Wonsan (5) was shelled for 30th consecutive day.

President Gives Figures

KEY WEST, Fla., March 21—(P)—President Truman served no today the United States has doubled its armed forces since the invasion of Korea to resist "still further Communist attacks against our free nations."

An exchange of telegrams between the president and Secretary of Defense Marshall disclosed this country's unimproved forces now stand at more than 2,900,000 nine months after Korean Reds launched their unprovoked attack June 25.

Mr. Truman made the telegrams public shortly before leaving at 7:30 A. M. (EST) for a visit to Fort Jefferson in the dry tortugas aboard the destroyer Sarsfield. He is due back at 5 P. M.

The president will fly back to Washington tomorrow to spend the Easter weekend with Mrs. Truman and his singing daughter, Margaret. He is scheduled to take off at 2 P. M. (EST) Thursday from the Boca Chica Air Station, eight and a half miles from this naval submarine station.

Warning to Russia
Mr. Truman's announcement was a new warning to Soviet Russia that this country "in company with other free nations" is determined to establish and maintain world peace.

He emphasized the speed with which this country is rebuilding its defense by disclosing Marshall's telegram giving the size of this country's armed force as doubled what it was on June 25.

"This doubling of our strength has been accomplished less than nine months after the Communist aggression against the Republic of Korea." (Please turn to Page Two)

Highway Sign System Being Tested in Ohio
COLUMBUS, March 21—(P)—Motorists driving along an eight and one-half mile stretch of highway near Columbus Monday will see some mighty strange looking highway signs.

The signs won't mean a thing to motorists, but they will to 40 official observers who will help determine a universal highway sign system.

The signs will be markings of shapes and colors used in many lands. The observers will drive by them during the day and night. Then they'll tell how quickly they can see the signs and understand them.

There will be no words on the signs. Highway Director T. J. Kauer declined to give the exact location of the signs to avoid a rush of curious motorists.

Old Records in Court House Cannot Be Destroyed, Ruling
None of the old records stored in the Court House attic can be destroyed by county officials to eliminate fire hazards, County Auditor Ulric T. Acton learned Tuesday.

Acton had been assigned by the county commissioners to ascertain which, if any, of the old records stored in the attic of the county building, could be destroyed.

During a visit to the Attorney General's Office in Columbus there is no law providing for the destruction of county records, except after they are microfilmed, and then a 21-year wait is necessary after the microfilming is done.

A law is now in process of being enacted which would cut the time from 21 to six years after records have been microfilmed. The commissioners asked the auditor to investigate before steps (Please turn to Page Fourteen)

Parallel 38 Is Neared by Allies Now

BY OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, March 21—(P)—An American tank force today rumbled into the former Chinese stronghold of Chuncheon. It met only flag-waving Korean civilians.

The Chinese, who had made the Central Korean road center their troop massing point in South Korea, apparently had withdrawn north of parallel 38.

Chuncheon is 8½ miles south of the Red Korean border. It was from Chuncheon the Chinese mounted their two massive offensives in January and February against Wonju, deep in central Korea.

On the western front, South Korean and American tank forces ranging up the historic invasion route of Korea bumped into bitter Communist resistance north of Seoul.

An American tank patrol on the road to Uijongbu ran into a heavy mine field.

"The small arms and mortar fire were so intense that it was impossible for the men to leave the tanks and remove the mines," an operations officer said.

Parallel 38 Neared

On the east coast South Korean units were officially placed within 8½ miles of the old border between North and South Korea. Patrols may have reached or crossed the imaginary line.

From Eighth Army headquarters AP Correspondent Leif Erickson reported: "in pulling back from Chuncheon, the Chinese Communists apparently have withdrawn their main forces back north of the 38th parallel."

On the east-central front, American artillery and planes decimated a small enemy concentration forming for an attack northwest of Pangam, about half the 300 Reds were killed.

A British general told Eighth Army correspondents the Reds would not regain the initiative in Korea. Lt. Gen. Richard Nelson Gale, director general of training in the British army, said the UN forces are slowly and methodically pursuing their own course.

He did not say whether the (Please turn to Page Two)

Killer of Five Faces Prison

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 21—(P)—Admitted slayer William E. Cook, Jr., today was sentenced to terms totaling 300 years in "Alcatraz or another safe prison where he has no chance to escape" for the slaying of the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Illinois.

The sentences are to run consecutively.

U. S. District Judge Stephen Chandler gave Cook, who showed no visible signs of emotion, 60 years for each of five counts in the kidnap-murder of Mr. and Mrs. Mosser and their three children.

"Society stands indicted for permitting this child to grow up in inhuman conditions that permitted these crimes, Chandler said.

Cook said in a statement after his arrest January 14 that he kidnapped the Mosser family in Oklahoma County December 30 and held them at gun point three days before he shot them to death.

Their bodies were found in an abandoned mine shaft near Cook's old home in Joplin, Mo., the day following his arrest.

Indebted to Convict
Costello said he owed $30,000 to convicted big-time bookmaker Frank Erickson, now serving a two-year prison term.

He previously said he invested in the oil business at Erickson's suggestion as a "blind investment" on "a hunch." He said he owned about "4-48 percent" of the King Oil Company.

Boss Costello Defies Senate For 4th Time

Suspicion Aroused By Refusal To Tell About His Wealth

NEW YORK, March 21—(P)—Underworld boss Frank Costello today defied Senate crime investigators for the fourth time in their efforts to find out his net worth. He said he wouldn't answer the question.

With the same sullen stubbornness he has displayed when the matter came up previously, Costello said the committee was asking for information it had no right to.

"I refused before," Costello said. "I'm not going to answer that question."

The gambler, labeled by the committee as head of a national crime syndicate, pictured himself to the committee as one now engaged in purely legitimate business.

And he said he wasn't going to talk about what assets he has.

Costello pictured himself as a promoter of jet broilers for the benefit of housewives with small apartments.

He conceded before the Senate crime committee the jet broiler business hadn't taken up much of his time so far.

Prior to Costello's appearance, the committee issued a second invitation to New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to appear before it about gambling at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Suspicious Aroused
Sen. Charles Tobey (R-NH) said Costello's refusal to answer "makes us suspicious and I don't want to be suspicious."

"The world can't think well of a man who covers up," he added. Costello has disclosed he has around $150,000 in cash in his home safe and in two bank accounts, but beyond that, he contended his holdings are his own affair.

"Do you have a safe deposit box anywhere else other than in your home?" asked committee counsel Rudolph Halley.

Costello said "no." Costello's attorney, George Wolf, has contended his client is constitutionally entitled to withhold data about his wealth. The committee has asked for a legal brief on this claim.

It says the brief will figure in its recommendation to the Senate to cite the witness for contempt of Congress.

As he began his seventh round with the committee, Costello said he has become an ordinary business man, with interests in various honest endeavors.

He made a plunge into oil on "a hunch," he said, and another into jet broilers because "I like it."

Business Enterprises
Halley asked Costello whether the broker business and the New Orleans Beverly Club were the only legitimate businesses he was engaged in now.

Costello: I would say, yes. Of course, I have a trading company. He was referring to a real estate company.

Then he said he had "a little interest in an oil field."

Halley asked whether Costello had in excess of $10,000 in cash "anywhere else" than in his strongbox at home or in his bank accounts.

Costello: I'm not going to answer that question on the ground it pertains to my net worth, which I refused to answer before.

After a brief recess, Costello told the committee in addition to his other cash, he has about $4,000 to $5,000 in his summer home at Sands Point on Long Island.

"Have you a strongbox there?" Halley asked.

A. "No."
Q. "Is the money secreted somewhere?"
A. "Yes."
Q. "Have you any other cash other than what you have mentioned?"
A. "No."

Indebted to Convict
Costello said he owed $30,000 to convicted big-time bookmaker Frank Erickson, now serving a two-year prison term.

A.E. Harrington Dies in Circleville

Alfred E. Harrington, 57, who has a wide circle of friends here in the grocery business, died in Berger Hospital in Circleville, after a long illness. Born in Pickaway County, the son of Alfred N. and Mary Alice Smith Harrington, he was associated for many years with the W. J. Weaver and Son Grocery Co. of Circleville.

He was a hunter and a horseman by hobby and was a veteran of service during World I with the chemical warfare service. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Circleville. His sole survivor is a sister, Mrs. H. B. Timmons of Circleville.

Funeral services will be held at 3 P. M. Friday, at the W. H. Albaugh Chapel in Circleville, with the VFW post of Circleville in charge of the military services. Rev. Carl L. Wilson will be in charge of the funeral services. Friends may call at the chapel at any time.

Burial will be made in the soldiers section of the Forest Cemetery in Circleville.

Palbearers will be Donald Mason, Leonard Ebelin, Harold Manbeavers, John Montgomery, Walter Starkey and Jerry Win-fough.

Thomas Calhoun Services Are Held

Funeral services for Thomas Calhoun, who died at 104 years of age, were held at 1:30 P. M. Tuesday, at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, with Rev. Delbert Harper and Rev. Ernest Beverly in charge.

Rev. Harper read the hymns, "Going Down the Valley" and "Face to Face," while Rev. Beverly read the Scripture and offered prayer.

Palbearers were Chris Brill, Thomas Calhoun, Thomas Skaggs, Bill Tumbleston, Joe Haines and Ellis Haines.

Burial was made in the family lot of the Washington Cemetery.

H. R. SEXAUER DIES

Red Stronghold

Allies planned to cross the politically significant border.

Reds Digging In

Erickson reported fresh Chinese troops were digging in on the western front north of Seoul. This may indicate the Reds are trying to slow down or halt the Allied advance up the center by posing a serious threat on the UN's western flank.

The Chinese and Red Koreans appear to be north of the border on the eastern front and withdrawing behind it on the central front.

But on the western front, a fresh Chinese army corps, the 26th, have moved into position about 30 miles northeast of the battered old South Korean capital. It was screening the withdrawal of other Red troops.

This shift of forces, Allied officers said, may be the start of a maneuver by which the rested Chinese Third Field Army may replace the Chinese Fourth Field Army all across the front.

Field reports said an American unit Wednesday met stiff resistance from about 2,500 Chinese on the western front. Air strikes were called down on three Red troop concentrations.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker said the Reds have manned defense positions on both sides of the highway which runs northward from Seoul through Uijongbu. Chinese are on the east, North Koreans on the west.

Uijongbu is 12 miles north of Seoul.

General MacArthur's ban on any mention of the 38th parallel was lifted Wednesday. Such bans usually cloak an impending military operation. No new operations have been reported, however.

American forces are within 13 miles of 38 on the west central front. They were reported six miles northeast of the Chungpyong reservoir.

Korea," General Marshall wired.

"For your information, the strength we have already attained—a total strength in excess of 2,900,000—was not attained in World War Two until more than 21 months after our build-up started in June 1940, following the fall of France, and more than three months after Pearl Harbor."

The president took unusual steps to seek world-wide disclosure of the progress of American defenses, and the exchange of telegrams was beamed around the globe by the state department's Voice of America.

He telegraphed Marshall: "I wish to commend you and all your associates in the army, navy, and the air force for the strenuous efforts which have made such progress possible."

"This tremendous gain in our strength has been made necessary by the lawless aggression of Communist forces in Korea, and by the menace of still further Communist attacks against other free nations. x x x"

The defense department has this country's pre-Korean armed forces strength at 1,458,000 men. Mr. Truman has announced the goal of 3,500,000 men as soon as possible after June 30. And his leaders in Congress are making a last-ditch stand against some attempts to place a ceiling of 4,000,000 men on the uniformed personnel.

Even more determined resistance has been decided upon against any attempt to require congressional approval to dispatch to Europe more than the four divisions already promised to General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The monthly draft has been running at about 80,000, but has been reduced to 50,000 for May. Six national guard divisions have been called into service.

A few days ago, the president again proclaimed this country's willingness to participate in a foolproof disarmament plan involving inspection by the United Nations to insure compliance.

Shrine Club Favors Minimum Salary Bill

Members of the Board of Directors of the Washington Shrine Club went on record Monday night favoring the passage of House Bill No. 48 in the Ohio General Assembly. The action was taken since the board feels that the passage of the bill is "vital to the improvement of Ohio schools, and therefore the entire community would benefit from it." The bill provides for a minimum salary for teachers in Ohio.

owed $30,000 to Erickson came after a wrangling, see-saw discussion, during which he several times refused to talk about his debts.

"Have you any other indebtedness in excess of $1,000?" Halley asked.

"Well, I owe . . ." his voice trailed. "I believe I do."

Q. "What is your total indebtedness?"

A. "I decline to answer that question."

Sen. Kefauver ordered the witness to answer.

"I still decline," Costello said.

"It goes into my net worth."

Q. Do you own any securities?

A. Well, I personally don't. I bought a few shares for Mrs. Costello.

Q. What kind of shares?

A. Television.

Q. How many shares.

A. Two hundred shares.

Q. Do you or Mrs. Costello have any other securities?

A. We have not.

Costello said nobody owed him or his wife any money.

The hearing room was packed with spectators, as it has been throughout the dramatic New York hearings.

A crowd milled in the corridors outside, and other curious bystanders hovered at the entrance of the federal building to watch the arrival and departure of witnesses.

Millions watched the proceedings by television.

involved inspection by the United Nations to insure compliance.

Dewey had brushed aside a previous invitation, suggesting instead the senators come to the state capitol at Albany to hear his views. But the committee rejected this idea.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), committee chairman, renewed the committee's invitation at the opening of the final and eighth day of the sensation-packed New York public hearings.

"It is unfortunate that Governor Dewey has not seen fit to come down and give us any information he might have," Kefauver commented.

He added it wasn't a practice of the committee to command governors to appear, so he said the committee wished to say again it hoped Dewey will show up for subsequent hearings in Washington.

When Dewey announced his decision yesterday, Sen. Lester Hunt (D-Wyo) had remarked wryly that "it's just as far from New York to Albany as it is from Albany to New York."

Sen. Kefauver told reporters just before today's session opened he might make a statement sometime later on the testimony of former Mayor William O'Dwyer, ambassador to Mexico.

O'Dwyer, during two days of testimony, told of passing out jobs to friends of underworld figures.

Reminding newsmen O'Dwyer had several grand jury appearances scheduled here, Kefauver said:

"Providing we (the committee) are in business at the end of Mr. O'Dwyer's grand jury appearances, I will make a statement concerning his testimony."

Kefauver said the committee did not intend to "send for" Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri or Ferdinand Pecora, rivals in last fall's election campaign.

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP)—Grain and soybean futures opened at a higher pace today but prices later slipped under profit-taking sales.

Early buying was influenced partly by announcement that the government will export about 126,000 bushels of grain in March and April. However, since about all of this grain already has been sold by exporters or committed by the government, this didn't indicate any new business.

Continued dry weather in the southwestern winter wheat belt also led to some early buying, but then commission houses and local traders sold on the upturns of yesterday and early today.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, March 21—(AP)—Fly-paper is as slick as a skating rink compared with what the English language can do to the Senate—sometimes. This is one of the times.

For sheer confusion, nothing can beat the present predicament of the lawmakers. Twenty-four of them took weeks to decide what they wanted to say on the troops-for-Europe issue.

And when they finally said it, they got so tangled in the language that now no one, including them, can say for sure what they had in mind. Before looking at the jam they're in, here's a short background.

There were cries of protest, particularly from Republicans, and most particularly from Senators Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, when President Truman made it known that:

He wanted to send four divisions to Europe to help build up our allies' army there, under the terms of the North Atlantic pact, which we approved, and in which article 3 pledged the partners to "mutual aid."

Taft and Wherry protested the president had no constitutional right to send troops abroad without first getting Congress' approval. Mr. Truman said that as commander-in-chief he had the right.

Two of the most powerful Senate committees—foreign relations and armed services—sat down jointly to hold hearings on this and tell the Senate what they thought. Last week they okayed a "resolution" which approved sending the four divisions but, in section 6, said:

"It is the sense of the Senate that, in the interests of sound constitutional processes... congressional approval should be obtained" before any more troops were sent. All 24 members of the two committees who considered the resolution signed it. But what does it mean?

It says Mr. Truman "should" get approval before sending more troops. Does that mean he "must"? And what meanings does a "resolution" have anyway? Since senators themselves admit Mr. Truman doesn't have to abide by it but can ignore it?

And just what does "approval" mean? How would the approval be given? By some later "resolution"? And how many troops? For instance, would it be all right for the president to send four more divisions without congressional approval, but not six, or should he get approval if he wanted to send only one more man?

And, further, what's that phrase -- "constitutional processes" -- doing in there since nothing in the constitution says the president has to get such approval?

These are all questions being asked by senators themselves since this resolution was submitted to the full Senate for approval by the 24 committee members, all of whom approved it. Listen to them:

Senator Smith, New Jersey Republican who wrote the controversial section 6, said he didn't think the president would need approval to send two or more divisions but would if he wanted to send 50.

But Smith admitted he was unable to "give a line of demarcation" showing just where approval should be obtained.

Senator McClellan, Arkansas Democrat, decided there seemed to be "96 different interpretations." (There are 96 senators).

Senator Saltonstall, Massachusetts Republican and one of the committeemen, agreed the resolution was not in perfect form.

Senator Wiley, Wisconsin Republican and another committeeman, said the resolution would be only advice to the president, and not legally binding.

But Senator Taft said the whole thing should be rephrased to say the president "must" get approval instead of the present "should" get it.

Senator McMahon, Connecticut Democrat, expressed the feeling that "I shall be pleased if, through some intellectual process, I can be convinced that it does not mean what I think it means."

Senator Ferguson, Michigan Republican, demanded to know what that business about "constitutional processes" was doing in there.

And Senator Ives, New York Republican, told his colleagues: "there may be a few other folks in the United States who, like myself, may be a bit stupid. We have to have these things spelled out so we may understand them."

This could go on and on, and will.

Weather Observer To Attend Lecture

Coyt A. Stookey, U. S. Weather Observer for the district, is planning to attend at least one of a series of three lectures to be held in Columbus March 27, 28 and 29. The lectures, which are in the nature of instruction to weather observers, will be given by Dr. Hurd C. Willett, professor of Meteorology, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

DT&I Goes to Federal Court

Passenger Coach Again in Dispute

The DT&I Railway, reportedly now being owned by the Pennsylvania Railway Co., has gone into the U. S. district court in an action seeking to knock out the recent decision of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission compelling the railway to maintain its passenger train service between Springfield and Jackson.

In an action filed on March 15 the company seeks an injunction in the U. S. district court at Columbus to prevent Ohio officials from forcing the railway to continue this service.

Last April the DT&I filed an application with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission for permission to abandon the passenger cars on its line. The petition hearings were held in June by the commission's attorney—examiner John Case, of Washington C. H. Three separate hearings were held during which witnesses from Fayette and other counties through which the railway passes, were examined.

The commission, acting upon its attorney-examiner's report, rejected the railway's request. The DT&I asked for a rehearing in November and this was denied by the commission on Jan. 11.

Now the railway company in its suit against the Ohio commission, the Ohio attorney general and Gov. Frank J. Lausche has entered federal court asking that three U. S. district judges, as is permissible under the law, to hear their case seeking injunction against the Ohio officials, to restrain them from putting the Public Utilities Commission's order into effect.

The railway company in its petition says that the commission's order will be enforced unless relief is granted the railway by the court. They say the order to retain its passenger service is unreasonable and a burden on interstate commerce in violation of the commerce clause in the U. S. Constitution. Also that the commission's rejection of the company's request is unreasonable, arbitrary and amounts to a confiscation of the company's property at the rate of $206 per day. This is the amount the company claims to lose by maintaining this passenger service.

The company claims the commission's act is a denial of due process of law and that the company will have to continue operation at a loss on this service or be subject to a fine of $1000 for each offense if it fails to operate the passenger cars.

It asks that Ohio officials be restrained and enjoined permanently from pursuing any remedy by mandamus, injunction, penalties or forfeiture, provided under the Ohio law, or any other action by Ohio officials to compel the railway to comply with the commission's order.

Under the law an answer by the court is asked in 20 days.

Finds Projects Not Economical

Conservancy Plans Receive Jolt

The Deer Creek and Paint Creek dam projects of the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District have been found by U. S. Army Engineers to be impractical.

C. C. Chambers, chief engineer for the district, admitted that the army engineers had found the Deer Creek dam and lake to be not economically feasible.

The engineers found the annual cost of the Deer Creek project to be $449,600, compared with benefits of $226,000.

Chambers, who was being cross-examined by Delaware and Union

County prosecutors, Clyde Lewis and Luther Liggett, also admitted that the army engineers have established the cost of additional local protection for Columbus at a cost of $1,500,000 instead of $400,000 outlined in the district plan.

Chambers also said that the construction of reservoirs on Paint Creek, several miles south of Greenfield, and Big Darby Creek to be impractical.

The engineers found the annual cost of the Paint Creek project would be $634,100, the engineers estimated, with only $391,000 benefits.

Bloomer Named 4-H President

Max Bloomer was selected president of the Woollyers 4-H Club of Marion Township at a recent meeting at the home of the club leader, Willard Bitzer.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: Oliver Iden, vice president; Elizabeth Iden, secretary; Dean Cory, Jr., news reporter. All of the officials of the club were sworn in by Albert Cobb, assistant county 4-H agent.

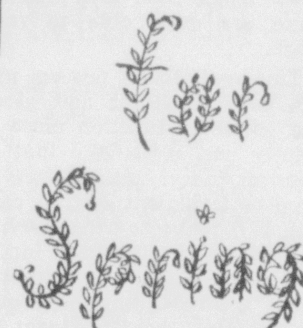

Also attending the meeting were: Malcom Bloomer, assistant club leader, Larry Fisher, Bill Trimmer, Dean Hawk, Bill Arnold, Jerry Cory and George Iden.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Bitzer served refreshments to the group.

At the next meeting, scheduled for April 7, the group plans to discuss possible sheep projects for the club. The meeting will be held at the home of George and Oliver Iden.

Housecleaning Needed in Washington D. C.

The growing movement in Congress to abolish the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was initiated by Republicans, but it has its basis in an inquiry conducted by the Democratic chairman of a Senate committee dominated by Democrats. To that extent it is a bipartisan effort.

It is bipartisan, too, in that it is supported by many members of the majority party who, like the people in general, are disgusted by the public peddling of influence, the distribution of gratuities, and the awarding of political favors which seems to have marked the RFC's recent conduct.

The fact is that the RFC, regardless of the unsavory transactions which have lately been brought to light, has outlived its usefulness. So long as the nation was in a depression and investment capital from private sources was almost impossible to obtain, the agency served the purpose of keeping the economy on something approaching an even keel and of preventing the liquidation of essential businesses and industries.

That is no longer its function. Abundant private funds are available for economic development. There have been times when the RFC actually had to shop around for opportunities to make government loans. In this kind of a buyers' market it is no wonder that the easy money boys who infest Washington reaped a rich harvest. They would encourage firms or individuals to borrow and, for a consideration, would see to it that the loans were approved.

Jesse Jones, former chairman of the RFC, declared more than a year ago that the agency was no longer needed. It isn't hard to guess what he would say about it today.

In the demand for a general housecleaning in Washington, in which many Democratic as well as Republican voices are raised, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation scandals are being compared to the Teapot Dome revelations of nearly 30 years ago. In this comparison President Truman is pitted against Calvin Coolidge.

Demand for a ruthless fumigation by the administration really puts the president on the spot. A month ago he called the RFC investigation "asinine," said he couldn't see any evidence of illegal action. He insisted all RFC loans had been in the public interest and renominated all five members of the RFC board, some of whom were under fire by the congressional investigating committee headed by a Democrat, Senator Fulbright of Arkansas.

Coolidge, then vice president, kept his mouth shut during the Teapot Dome scandals. When he became president the mess was cleaned up speedily by resignations and imprisonments. There was one suicide. Coolidge managed everything with political sagacity so that his party did not suffer a defeat as a result of the scandals.

But President Truman has placed himself on the spot by his unfortunate ad libbing. If he leaves the wrong-doers in office, it will appear that he condones the wrongdoing. If he throws them out of office, it will be an admission of faulty judgment in appointing them.

In this situation Mr. Truman would loom large in public esteem if he undertook a moral housecleaning with thoroughness and dispatch, oblivious to what he has said in the past. A low level of morality in the government of the United States can not be condoned indefinitely.

It's a Promise!

The Federal Trade Commission has obtained the promise of 22 television set makers and their advertising agency never again to advertise that without a television set in the home, a child would be handicapped in the school, his morale would suffer and he would be humiliated among his more fortunate set-owning companions.

As an example of an offense against good taste and truth, those "child appeal" advertisements must be close to the top. We might also inquire—are all television programs supposed to be good for youngsters?

German Miss Misses the Point

LUBBOCK, Tex. — "American newspapers? I like the comic strips best, but I can't always get their point," Miss Christine Sauermann, one of nine German girls attending Texas Tech here, said in evaluating U. S. papers. "Oh, that is no reflection against you," chimed in classmate Ilse Mergler. "The Americans do not always get the point either," she said, relating how she asked a Texan to explain a funny page story to her.

"Point? Why, I didn't know they had any," she said the Texan answered.

The girls are majoring in home economics at Tech under the re-orientation program of the U. S. State Department. They have been here nearly a year.

In rating the American paper contents to their interest preference, the girls listed comics, advertisements, society and local news, in that order.

"Here in America you can sit right in your home and know what the stores have to offer, whereas at home we have to walk all over town to find what we might be hunting," said Annelie Sheffler.

"German newspapers do not go in for an abundance of advertising."

American society write - ups fascinated Elsie Schneidawind.

"Here the stories are made much more appealing than in Germany," she explained. "The journalists go into so much detail concerning the bride. They seldom picture the groom, but at home where our papers run a marriage picture, and that is not often, they always include a picture of the man."

And the girls had some German newspapers to prove their points.

American newspapers' extensive use of local news stories interested the group of girls.

"German papers print local news, but their pages are dedicated more to politics, international news, editorials, cultural reviews and serial stories," Miss Schneidawind said. The German students dislike a few things about American papers, principally the "jump page."

"Everybody's story is so important that it must be put on the front page," the group agreed, "but one page cannot hold everything so only about ten lines of each story is placed there. Then the reader must read and hunt, read and hunt until he becomes so tired he doesn't care whether or not he reads the rest of the paper."

The girls claimed, too, that the paper is too wide and explained it hurt their arms to hold it open to read the inside stories; had too many pages to read comfortably and played up crime too much.

"We cannot see how the sensational build-up and coverage of crime stories can do anything but be a bad influence on American children," Miss Sheffler explained for the group.

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Mankind has always dreamed of a magic elixir which would restore lost youth. Explorers of old sought it in forest fountains, and modern chemists have pursued it in their laboratories. Unfortunately, however, no such formula has ever been discovered. Medical science, however, can today give us the next best thing. It can rejuvenate or make people younger, but it can revitalize the old, bestowing on them new energy. It has recently been proved, for example, that it is possible to increase mental alertness and physical strength. Under such treatment, old people become more interested in life and more cooperative. They are able to get about under their own steam and some are even able to resume work.

This revitalizing process makes the body healthier and gives it the power to function more efficiently and more like that of a younger individual. Before this type of treatment can be carried out, it is necessary that each person have a careful study made by the physician to determine just what methods may be required. Essentially, the treatment consists in utilizing proper diet and such gland products as are needed.

In regard to the diet, the most emphasis must be placed on protein foods, such as meat, milk, eggs, and fish. These proteins are needed for rebuilding worn-out tissues. The protein from animal sources supplies all of the necessary amino acids, the "building stones" from which proteins are constructed. At the same time, testosterone is given to male patients to make sure that the aging tissues can use the proteins satisfactorily.

In older persons, the process of using starches and sugars that furnish energy may be slowed down. This process can be speeded up by giving certain hormones from the adrenal glands, which are located over the kidneys, or by giving injections of insulin if necessary. Insulin is the secretion formed by the pancreas which the body must have in order to use sugars.

Slowed Down In all cases, it is well to have a basal metabolism test to determine the speed at which the chemical activities in the body are going on. If this process is slowed down, extracts from the thyroid gland or iodine may be utilized.

Estrogens are used for women. In some cases, extracts from the pituitary gland, which is located at the base of the brain, are also utilized.

In one study recorded, over 250 aged men and women were given this type of revitalizing treatment in one form or another. Some were given one form of the treatment and some another, in an effort to ascertain the best methods of revitalizing the body. The work shows, that such re-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. G.: Is it harmful to take molasses in large quantities?

Answer: Molasses in itself is a good food since it supplies sugar and iron. However, an excessive amount of any food is undesirable, since it would keep you from getting all of the various foods you need.

It has been estimated that the solid crust of the earth is 36 miles thick, thinner proportionately to the size of the earth than an egg shell is to the size of an egg.

Horse Trainers Bundle Against Cold

Bad Weather Never Halts Daily Routine

Harness horse racing, the great sport of rural America going elite, is not all glamor and romance before cheering thousands.

A lot of hard work goes into it that the crowds rarely see, or even realize.

Just ask any one of the nine trainers who are now conditioning more than 150 trotters and pacers at the Fayette County Fairground.

These men not only have to apply science and patience to the development of a gangling youngster into a smoothly functioning flesh and bones machine, they also have to endure considerable hardship and some actual physical discomfort in the process.

They start, usually, early in January to get their charges ready for the summer campaigns. The weather—cold, sleet, snow or rain—dare not interfere for long. The trainers must bundle up like Eskimos day after day against the cutting wind. With robes wrapped around their legs, heavy coats pulled up to their ears, their hands encased in mittens and their hats pulled low almost to meet their muzzles, they often are almost unrecognizable; they look more like big bundles of nondescript clothing.

And What a Spring

They look forward to spring when they can begin to enjoy their work without the hardships and discomfort of winter's cold.

But, with the advent of spring this year, it was just more of the same—cold and snow. However, they did not let that interfere with their very essential routine.

Cooling out the horses after their jogging has been, and still is, often a delicate procedure that also involves keeping them warm.

For a hot horse that cools too quickly can mean a horse laid up and set back for weeks with sore muscles.

When spring came Wednesday to Fayette County training headquarters at the Fairground, the air was chilly and patches of snow dotted the landscape. Trainers were still bundled up and hoping for weather that fits the calendar. Most of the colts have been broken by now. The veteran campaigners and youngsters alike have begun to show the results of weeks of jogging. They are beginning to get in shape physically for stepping up the speed of their endless rounds of jogging to "leg 'em up".

Won't Be Long Now

It won't be long now until the trainers are "settin' 'em down" as they "come home" that last eighth and then the last quarter of a mile.

But, the progress depends to some extent on the weather. Given a break there, trainers here will start "working" their charges before long. They can't waste any time now, for the first of them will start moving out to "go to the races" within about six weeks.

The cinder track on the outside of the racing strip here has been a boon to the trainers. There have been few days this winter, except when the snow was just too deep to plough through, that they have not been able to jog their horses.

Now, however, they are beginning to ease onto the race track, when conditions warrant, to step up the time, little by little.

The horse training activities here all add up to a sizeable industry with nearly 50 employees. The principal stables are those of Harold Laymon, Frank S. Jackson and Jess Maddux (J & M Stable), Ray Garrity, G. Damon Baker (Bellaire Stable), Ernie Smith, Frank Lanum, Hugh Beatty, Eddie Cobb and A. G. Gordon.

Originally a brassard was a piece of defensive armor covering the upper arm. Now it is a bridge or band worn on the upper arm.

'Side Payment' Ban Measure Proposed

WASHINGTON, March 21—(AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill aimed at halting "side payment" demands by real estate dealers selling property to veterans.

The legislation was recommended by the justice department. It said there were "all too many cases" in which real estate dealers accepted under-the-table payments by veterans in excess of property appraisals by the veterans administration. GI loans can not be made on properties selling for more than their VA-appraised values.

Sellers would be subject to treble damages. If the veteran sued and won, he would get three times the down payment. If the government brought the action, the government would get two-thirds the penalty and the veteran one-third or, his money back.

Mother's Circle Elects Officers For New Year

The regular March meeting of Mother's Circle was held at the home of Mrs. William B. Clift. Mrs. Robert Dunton, president, conducted the business session during which liberal donations were made to the Easter Seal and Red Cross drives.

It was also decided to sponsor two delegates to the youth conference which will be held in Columbus March 27, 28 and 29.

Mrs. Otis B. Core reported for the nominating committee and submitted the names of officers for the coming year who were unanimously chosen by the members and are as follows.

Mrs. Robert Dunton, president; Mrs. William B. Clift as vice president who were retained for another year.

Mrs. Ray French, secretary; Mrs. W. F. Rettig, treasurer and Mrs. Marvin Thornburg as press reporter.

A panel discussion on an important subject was led by Mrs. James E. Rose, Mrs. Marion Rife, Mrs. Marvin Rossmann, Mrs. Otis B. Core and Mrs. Marvin Thornburg.

Relating to the subjects were films on education from the health department shown by Mr. John Leland and Mr. Paul Stievey.

During a social hour following Mrs. William Lovell hosted chairman and her assistants Mrs. Virgil Benson, Mrs. M. Grove Davis, Mrs. William Williams and Mrs. Wayne Woodyard served a dainty dessert course.

Class Members Meet With Mrs. Wilson

Mrs. Wilbur Wilson was hostess to the members of the King's Daughters Class of the First Christian Church. Mrs. Milbourne Flee, president, conducted the business session, which opened with the usual reports and roll call, which was responded to by ten members, each giving a quotation.

Cookies were brought to the meeting to be sent to the Cleveland Orphanage. It was voted to purchase a plant for the Easter decoration at the church, and a lengthy discussion was held on ways and means to replenish the class treasury. No decision was made and the members are to give suggestions at the next meeting.

The devotions were led by Miss Norma Flee, who read Scripture from Matthew, in keeping with the Easter season, and a poem which carried the same theme.

Prayer by the class teacher, Miss Naomi Butterfield, closed this period.

Miss Butterfield conducted the lesson study on the last week of the life of Christ.

The meeting closed with the benediction and during the social hour the hostess served a dainty dessert course which carried out an Easter theme.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Verna Williams.

Bachelor Dinner Is Given By James Hutton

Mr. James Hutton entertained Tuesday evening at a bachelor dinner party honoring Mr. Edmond Woodmansee whose marriage to Miss Elsa Petersen will be an event of the near future.

The delicious meal was served at two round tables in the recreation room.

Later the men enjoyed card games. Guests included in addition to the prospective bride-groom were Mr. Glenn Woodmansee, Mr. H. R. Petersen, Mr. W. A. Lovell, Mr. Clyde Snodgrass, Mr. Harris D. Willis, Mr. Donald Moore, Mr. John Leland and Mr. Walter Hutton. Mrs. Hutton assisted her son in the hospitalities.

Shower Honors Recent Bride

Mrs. Orlyn Kelly and Miss Phyllis Brush combined hospitalities at the home of Mrs. Kelly when they entertained at a bridal shower honoring Mrs. Joseph Hidy nee Martha Denney, Monday evening.

The guests enjoyed progressive canasta and at the close of the game awards went to Mrs. Glenn Moore, Miss Harriett Hamilton, Mrs. Marvin Waddle and Mrs. Homer Scott, who in turn presented them to Mrs. Hidy.

The lovely array of gifts were opened at a table centered with a beautifully dressed bride doll in white and two bridesmaids dressed in pink and blue.

A tempting dessert course featured ice cream molds topped with a miniature bride and groom and individual cakes topped with pink roses, was served at small tables.

Invited guests included were: Mrs. Homer Scott, Mrs. W. C. Hidy, Mrs. Robert Willis, Mrs. Glenn McCoy, Mrs. Robert Maust, Mrs. Robert Denton, Mrs. Robert James, Mrs. Marvin Waddle, Mrs. Carl Denney, Miss Harriett Hamilton, Miss Mary Lou Reif, Miss Lora Lee Enslin, Miss Jean Howard, Miss Edith Guidi and Mrs. Thomas Flynn.

Miss Lois Wiseman, student at Ohio Northern University, Ada, will arrive Thursday for an Easter visit with her parents Dr. and Mrs. Orlyn Wiseman in Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Vere Foster Includes Guests At Club Meet

Mrs. Vere C. Foster was a gracious hostess Tuesday afternoon to the members of the Olla Podrida Club at her home near Bloomingburg.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Leland Stevens. Roll call was responded to with poems and readings pertaining to Easter. The reading of minutes of the last meeting and reports of standing committees were heard and approved.

The program was in charge of the vice president, Mrs. J. M. Allemang, who presented Mrs. Guy Tucker, a clever free-hand artist, who drew scenes of winter at night, spring, and those depicting various verses of the Bible and Easter thoughts, which was most enjoyable and most interesting to her audience.

During a social hour following, the guests were served a dainty dessert and salad course by the hostess.

Guests included were Mrs. Raymond Scott, Mrs. Lucille Creath, Mrs. Edgar McIntosh and Mrs. Walter P. Noble.

Members present were Mrs. J. M. Allemang, Miss Kathryn Gosard, Miss Olive Swope, Mrs. Ray Larimer, Mrs. Frank Demorest and Mrs. Leland Stevens.

Lelands Hosts At Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. John Leland entertained at a beautifully appointed buffet supper and bridge party complimenting Mrs. Leland's brother Mr. Edmond Woodmansee and his fiancée Miss Elsa Petersen.

The Lelands seated their guests at two large tables and the decorations carried out a pink and white theme with beautiful arrangements of spring flowers flanked with tall white tapers.

Following the congenial supper hour the guests found the evening a most pleasant one in the progressive game.

At the conclusion attractively wrapped awards went to Mrs. Clyde Snodgrass and Mr. James Hutton. Miss Petersen and Mr. Woodmansee also received a beautiful gift from the host and hostess. Those enjoying the delightful event, in addition to the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Snodgrass, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lovell, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Woodmansee, Mr. and Mrs. James Garringer, Miss Marie Marchant, Miss Isabel Reid, Mr. Lawrence Burris and Mr. James Hutton.

Personals

Miss Elma Baker arrived Tuesday from Washington, D. C. to spend the Easter vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Damon Baker. Mr. Stuart Davy of London, England, who is attached to the British Embassy in Washington will arrive Friday to be the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Baker and Miss Baker.

Mrs. Bill Rhoades and sons Stevie and Bill, have returned from Indianapolis, Indiana where they motored for a weekend visit with friends and relatives.

Miss Marilyn Van Voorhis left Tuesday for Columbus where she will be the guest for a few days of Miss Jane Wheeler at her home in Bexley.

Miss Rosann L. Armbrust who is spending the semester vacation from Ohio State University at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Armbrust left Wednesday for Mansfield for a short visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McNew and son George.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holdren and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Wilson have returned from a three week vacation spent at Pompano Beach, Florida.

Joyce Crone Is Hostess at "Cootie Party"

Miss Joyce Crone entertained a group of close friends at a "Cootie Party." Awards in the game went to Miss Madeline Denen and Mrs. Vernon Clay.

Later refreshments were served and the table decorations featured St. Patrick's Day suggestions. Mrs. Clay, the former Dixie DeWeese and a recent bride was presented with a lovely gift by the hostess, who was assisted during the evening by her mother, Mrs. Charles F. Crone. Guests included were Misses Barbara West, Becky Armbrust, Madeline Denen, Lois Cherryholmes, Mary Sue Belles, Ruth Bandy, Doris Brown and Mrs. Vernon Clay.

Camp Fire Girls Adopt New Project

The Tunda Camp Fire group met Tuesday evening at Grace Methodist Church.

A short business meeting was in charge of the president Janet Ellis and the remainder of the evening was spent on a new project in cutting out dolls to be made for children in Europe under the supervision of Miss Marian Moore, guardian.

Woodyard Sisters Entertain Blue Birds

Patsy and Marty Woodyard entertained the Pansy group of the Cherry Hill Blue Birds.

Carolyn Williams president conducted the meeting during which seven members responded to roll call with their favorite TV program.

Proceeds from the cup cake sale were turned in which was a project which netted a tidy sum to replenish the treasury.

During the remainder of the evening the girls worked on gifts for their mothers on Mother's Day.

The Blue Bird Wish was repeated and the meeting adjourned.

Guardians Mrs. Caryl Williams and Mrs. William Clarke were present to supervise the meeting.

Dainty refreshments were served in small Easter baskets by the young hostesses assisted by their mother, Mrs. Wayne Woodyard.

Newly-Weds Are Honored At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. William Skinner entertained a group of friends at their home in Columbus honoring Sgt. and Mrs. James D. Skinner who were married March 10 in the Methodist Church in Montgomery, Alabama.

A buffet supper was served and included a beautifully decorated wedding cake.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing recordings and enjoying television programs. Included as guests were Eileen Hickie, Sue Gooley, Robert Hosler, Darrell Persinger of New Holland, Misses Peggy Tarbill, Mary Hughes, Shirley Bogart, Mary Jane Lininger, Mrs. Mary Ross, Miss Esther Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Skinner of Columbus. Sgt. and Mrs. Skinner who will leave Friday for Montgomery, received lovely gifts.

Dr. James E. Rose Speaker On Topic Mental Health At Regular LWV Meeting

Miss Fannie McLean extended the gracious hospitality of her handsome home to the League of Women Voters of Fayette County on Monday afternoon for a study of mental health.

State and local Leagues have adopted an agenda for the year which embraces social problems which affect the general welfare. High on the list is mental health which is the background for happy and successful living. Miss Mary D. Robinson, chairman of the local committee of mental health, presented the program, and Mrs. Minnette Fritts, president of the league, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker, Dr. James E. Rose.

Dr. Rose was par excellence as a speaker and adviser. In the informality of a large circle of inquiring women, he gave freely of his time and professional knowledge. He stated that psychiatrists aver that the mental health of a child is established long before the age of adolescence, probably in the prenatal stage, and that it reflects the mental attitude of the parents.

Good mental health is occasioned by a satisfactory adjustment to the environment in which one is happy and likes the world. Few people are perfectly adjusted; most all have aberrations. The majority of people consider themselves in good mental health and with these the profession of psychiatry needs no tinkering. But there are variable situations in which an upset comes along, and the victim needs a guidepost which enables him to overlook the disturbing factor and fear.

The speaker maintained that in good mental health the adjustment to the family outline is important. In the resurgence of medical science in the last three decades, remedial therapy sometimes has come round in a circle. An example is the now popular theory that a new born baby should "room in" with the mother. This is a definite mental benefit to the child which subconsciously acquires a feeling of security and love. This, too, is good for the mother. A nursing child is better adjusted, and mother and child are adjusted to each other.

Dr. Rose spoke of the kindergarten age and the value of having playmates early in life. In the early stage the child cannot adjust to a pattern and should be permitted to do the things he wants to do, with supervision. In the adolescent age a new set of adjustments are needed when the child is seeking to be an individual. Education is a family affair and the family should be kept together. It has been suggested that whole families—fathers, mothers, teachers, and others meet on school grounds in the evenings after school, and have parties, play games, and have a general good time which will establish an atmosphere of cooperation with others.

The value of family life teaching, and child guidance units was explained and the speaker outlined a proposed legislative program to provide good care for mental cases in hospitals and institutions. The meeting closed with a round table discussion in which Mrs. Fritts and Miss Robinson, both former probation officers, had a prominent part. Others participating were: Mrs. John Case, Miss Fannie McLean, Mrs. Ralph Penn, Mrs. Frank Haines, Mrs.

Mrs. Rowland Is Hostess to Garden Club

Mrs. John Rowland was hostess on Tuesday afternoon to the members of the Marilee Garden Club, with sixteen members and two guests present. Mrs. A. J. Kearney, president, opened the meeting by reading a poem, "March."

The usual reports were given and roll call was responded to by naming a bird which had been seen Tuesday morning. Mrs. Everett Rife, program leader, read an interesting article on "Birds."

A discussion, in charge of Mrs. A. B. Clifton, was held on "Conservation of Soil," "Making Compost" and "Use of Cold Frames." Mrs. Glenn Smith, Mrs. Jesse White and Mrs. Clarence Thomas, who recently attended the National Flower Show in New York City, and Mrs. Frank Holdren, who just returned from Florida, each gave an interesting report of their trip.

Mrs. Charles Garringer closed the meeting by reading the poem of the month. The hostess, assisted by the Misses Clara and Minta Rowland, served a delicious dessert course, and seated their guests at one long table and two smaller tables, featuring an Easter nest of colorful eggs on the larger table and daffodils on the smaller tables. Favors of candy Easter nests filled with tiny eggs were found at each place.

Daffodils from the hostess' own garden, in a lovely arrangement, with a huge pot of amaryllis made up added decorations admired in the living room.

Mrs. Harold Grant and Miss Joan White were included as guests.

VA Patients Are Entertained By Auxiliary

The regular monthly visit to the Chillicothe Veteran's Hospital was made Tuesday afternoon by the American Legion Auxiliary under the supervision of Mrs. Ray Mershon re-habilitation chairman for the month of March.

Forty-eight patients in Ward 211A were entertained and were given a treat of homemade cake.

Walter Craig, Mrs. William Hook, Mrs. Hugh Smith, and others. A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Rose.

Mrs. Ruth Rider Is Speaker at Rotary Session

Shows Colored Slides
Of Many Interesting
European Scenes

Mrs. Ruth Rider who returned last fall from a visit with her husband, Major William D. Rider, in Germany, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday at the Country Club.

The chairman of the March program committee, Quincy Cheadle, introduced Mrs. Rider, and briefly told of her trip to Europe.

She did not attempt to speak at length but adapted her program to a showing and explanation of many beautifully colored slides of pictures taken by her husband in Germany, France, Holland and other points in Europe.

Especially attractive were pictures of the tulip festival in Holland showing the elaborate floral decorations of homes and huge fields of blooming flowers.

Mrs. Rider and 11-year-old son Douglas, visited Major Rider for about two years in Germany where he is chief of prosthetics at the U. S. Army Hospital at Stuttgart. The son attended school there under both American and German teachers.

The lad was to have appeared with his mother at this Rotary meeting in a Bavarian costume to render a harmonica selection, but his plans were changed when he suddenly fell a victim of chickenpox.

Mrs. Rider, formerly Ruth Seibert, was reared in this county on a farm near Jeffersonville.

candy, potato chips soft drinks and cigarettes.

The entertainment consisted of piano numbers by Mr. Carl Johnson, vocal solos by Mrs. Mildred Snyder and group singing.

Those making the trip in addition to Mrs. Mershon were Mrs. Howard Mace, Mrs. Ernest Snyder, Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. Lawson Rhoads and Mr. George Phillips Jr.

EASTER

Goddess of Spring
Easter, the Goddess of Spring,
Brings hope to the heart of the world;

The promise of God above—
From death's sleep life-will—be unfurled.

We see it in flowers and trees,
When they' wake from their winter sleep;
And Christ from the grave arose,
But still for our dead we will weep.

The reason of things that are,
We so oft' do not understand;
We have to believe, accept
And figure that it is God's plan.

The world is wide and is old,
Disasters and wars come and go;
What the future holds for us,
Only our Lord above can know.

Friday Closing Cards Put Out

Recess Proposed For Church Service

Cards, 11 inches wide, that carried the announcement "Closed from 12 noon to 2 P. M. . . to attend Good Friday services at the First Presbyterian Church" today had been distributed to virtually every place of business in Washington C. H. by the Chamber of Commerce and Ministerial Association.

C. E. McCarley, secretary of the Chamber, said 150 of the cards had been printed. By late afternoon Tuesday, he had only a few left.

These, he said, were for those places whose proprietors wanted another card or for those that might have been overlooked in the distribution.

He added: "If anyone wants a card, for any reason, a call to the Chamber or one of the ministers will take care of that."

Union services have been arranged by the Ministerial Association for the First Presbyterian Church. The ministers have suggested that places of business be closed during the two hours in the middle of the day Friday to permit employees to attend them.

It has been emphasized that the closing is not being insisted on; word went out merely in the form of a suggestion.

This mid-day closing for Good Friday services is not entirely new here. Many places closed for them in previous years.

In the light of the past, members of the Ministerial Association said they had "no idea" how many places of business would close for the services. No check has been made and none is contemplated, it was said.

Champion of Poor, Fr. Cox, Is Dead

PITTSBURGH, March 21 —(P) —The Rev. James R. Cox, one of the most striking figures of the depression years and one time nominee for the presidency on a short-lived ticket, died Monday night.

The 65-year-old Catholic priest, nationally famous as a leader of a job-seekers' march to Washington in 1932, was stricken by a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been in failing health for several years. He collapsed in the rectory of St. Patrick's Church where he had been pastor 28 years, and died a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

Born March 7, 1886, in Pittsburgh, Father Cox sold newspapers on city streets to help pay for his education. Having known the rigors of poverty firsthand, he early became an outspoken champion of the underdog, a helper of struggling, confused youth. As a young priest, he drew both boys and girls off the streets, and taught them sports, dramatics and music. One of his boxing pupils was the late Harry Greb, world middle-weight champion.

DP&L Tax Bill Was $7,557,065

Interesting Data Made in Report

The tax bill of the Dayton Power and Light Company for 1950 was $7,557,065, according to the annual report just released to the company stockholders.

This tax contribution to the federal and state governments and to the county, municipal and miscellaneous taxing bodies of the area served by the company was 21 percent of the company's total expenses and $1,456,678 more than in 1949.

This tax contribution is only one part of the story unfolded in the 32-page book. Ample illustrated with photographs, charts and statistical tables, the report dramatizes the success of the company's record-breaking expansion in the post-war years.

Here are some of the most important facts extracted from this report. This company sold 1,479,470,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy in 1950, an increase of over 200,000,000 kilowatt hours, as compared with 1949. The population in the area now served is 828,755.

The company's electric customers are expected to pass the 200,000 mark in 1951. The number increased nearly 7,000 in the last year. Natural gas customers in 1950 were 128,397, or 5400 more than 1949.

Since 1945, it is stated, DP&L has spent over $75,000,000 for new facilities, thus practically doubling the value of the utility property in five years.

The company serves approximately one-seventh of the state of Ohio, operating in 24 contiguous counties. Throughout this territory comprised of 6,041 square miles, DP&L serves 282 villages, towns and cities as well as the adjacent suburban and rural areas. Ten years ago the company served a territory with a population of 475,882. The population in the area now served is 828,755.

School Reform in Germany Not Progressing as Expected

By DON DOANE

FRANKFURT, March 21—(P)—The United States is pouring two million dollars a year into an effort to democratize and modernize West Germany's antiquated, class-divided school system.

What are the results? "Progress has not equalled American hopes," a U. S. high commission report admits.

The report adds, however, that "a substantial number of educational innovations, such as free tuition and textbooks, social studies curricula, and university-level teacher training" have been adopted in many parts of the U. S. occupation zone.

"In addition," the report said, "numerous German governmental and private agencies have grown up which are devoted to promoting democratic school reform."

Occupation Purpose

School reform was one of the basic aims of the occupation laid down by four-power agreement soon after the war ended. The Allied program called for a German school system that:

1. Eliminates Nazism;
2. Provides equal educational opportunity;
3. Emphasizes education for civic responsibility and a democratic way of life;
4. Promotes understanding of and respect for other nations.

Each occupying power proceeded to carry out this program in its own way. The Russians centralized and unified the entire school system in their zone—and promptly devoted it to mass promotion of Communism.

The French pumped in new history books, trained many German teachers in nearby French schools. The British helped the Germans get new texts and encouraged teaching reforms.

The Americans set out to lead the Germans into a thorough voluntary reform of school organization, teaching methods and texts.

More than 50 American educators and officials work constantly at this task. Scores of others are brought over for short periods as advisors and consultants.

Many Study in U. S.

Hundreds of German teachers and students have been sent to the United States or other countries for study. American money finances teacher training institutes and research centers.

This program is headed by Dr. James Read, former professor of history and political science at the University of Louisville, Ky. He is chief of the education and cultural relations division of the U. S. High Commission. Chief of the education branch within Read's division is John Riedle of Milwaukee, Wis., former professor of philosophy at Marquette University.

In a recent report Dr. Read said: "Since the early days of the occupation, Americans and liberal Germans have worked together toward minimizing glaring inequalities in educational opportunity."

"By the end of this school year, all U. S. zone states will provide free tuition and textbooks for all public schools, elementary and secondary, with the exception of one state (Wuerttemberg-Baden) where tuition fees have been reduced 50 per cent. x x x

"Most prewar textbooks were eliminated because of their Nazi ideology. x x x They have now been replaced by 1,700 new titles published in 33,000,000 copies, most of them written since the war. x x x Several good history and other social science texts have been produced. But the teaching materials for this field are still inadequate."

One Step Forward

Thanks to the school reforms however, the educational fate of a German youngster now is decided at 12—instead of 10.

This is a step forward, American officials concede. But, they add emphatically, it is far from enough.

The basic fault in the school system, they said, was this: The whole school structure was split into two tracks. One was the Volksschule (people's school) followed by 85 or 90 percent of all youngsters. It led through an elementary school program of eight years, followed perhaps by three or four years of vocational training.

The other track led through Hoehere Schulen (high schools) to the university.

The two tracks ran together only for the first four school years. Then, at the age of 10, a student decided his future.

If he stayed in the peoples school, he could never go to the university. The peoples school does not teach the preparatory courses required.

It costs money to go through the high school system, and much more money to go to the university. The great majority of students had no alternative except to stay in the peoples school.

American officials have tried to swing the Germans at least part way toward the American one-track, free school system which offers every youngster the chance to go as far as he can or wants.

Generally, the German approach has been merely to postpone the age of decision. They try to standardize the fifth and sixth year courses in both people's schools and high schools so that at the age of 12 a student may transfer from one to the other without loss.

Financing Problems

Another structural reform the Americans are seeking in the German school system is school financing. It is now a hodge-podge. Some money comes from state funds, some from communities, but the latter have little control over their own schools. Even their teachers are assigned from above.

Thousands of the Nazis whom the Allies threw out of teaching jobs in 1945 are back in the classrooms but the difference is this:

These ex-Nazis are legally employed, under rules approved by the Allies themselves. Very few Allied officials—and practically no Germans—are worried about it.

"We don't feel that there is so much danger any more from the Nazis themselves," said Read.

"The greater danger is that backwardness in teaching methods, unless cured, will leave today's pupils susceptible to some radical ideology in the future."

All former party members now teaching school have been tried in German denazification courts and cleared of party fanaticism.

If all the German teachers who joined the party were barred from teaching, a lot of schools would have to close. There aren't enough teachers now.

Teachers Are Scarce

The shortage is one of the schools' most serious problems. In the elementary schools of the U. S. zone, there is only one teacher for every 50 pupils. Some classes number 100.

Another problem: Most of these teachers have only a secondary school education. Only the high schools require a college degree. Under constant American prodding, these requirements are now being raised as fast as teachers can be educated to meet them.

Postwar reforms are develop-

The Record-Herald Wed., March 21, 1951 9

ing free discussions in German classrooms where the professor used to do all the talking.

German teachers—who once ruled their classes with iron discipline—now mix in spirited, friendly, give-and-take with their pupils.

Social studies—like civics, public health and economic history—are now taught in schools where such courses were unheard of before the war.

Parents who used to leave education entirely to the state or church are beginning to organize—to spur improvement of their schools.

Students who by German tradition only studied and obeyed, are now forming student councils for self-government.

So far, however, both Allied and German educators agree that the reforms have not spread far enough through the school system—or gone far enough in the schools they have reached.

"There is a strong tendency in the German schools to return to the status existing before 1933 with no fundamental changes in the direction of a true democracy," said one official American report.

"The administrative organization is still authoritarian, x x x there is not yet by any means a genuine program of citizenship training x x x although there are some healthy developments in that direction."

Scioto-Sandusky Cost Is Estimated

COLUMBUS, March 21—(P)—It will cost an estimated $54,650,000 to build five Ohio reservoirs, and complete an improvement project near Chillicothe, Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district engineers said yesterday.

The official estimate was announced at a final hearing on all district projects proposed.

These include the Mill Creek reservoir, $10,800,000, and reservoirs at Big Darby Creek $13,500,000, Deer Creek $10,400,000, Paint Creek $11,100,000 and Rocky Fork $4,700,000.

An estimated $4,150,000 would go to a Chillicothe project.

Teachers Beat Students at Basketball Here

Both the men and women city school teachers whipped two student all-star teams Wednesday evening at the Washington C. H. High School gym. The women teachers won by a 30 to 27 margin and the men ended the game ahead 25 to 21.

The women teachers, coached by Mrs. Jane Grillo, jumped to an early 12 to 6 lead in the opening quarter and managed to keep ahead through the rest of the game.

A last minute drive by the high school girls team brought them to within three points of a tie.

According to girls rules, only the three forwards can shoot baskets and the star performers for the teachers were Mrs. Mary Ann Clift with 12 points, Miss Eleanor Leiter with 10 points and Miss Carolyn Talbot with 8 counters.

Donna Brandon walked off with high point honors for the high school girls and the game with 13 points, followed by M. Sword with 7 points. Southard and Gilmore had four each and Shirley Pyle got a free throw for the girls scoring. Coach for the team was Jane Terrill.

THE MEN TEACHERS had a little harder time with their opposition. They got off to a slow start, probably to conserve their energy for the end of the game.

It was four and a half minutes before the students sank the first bucket of the game.

Mark Schaeper got a free toss for the teachers and Fred Pierson managed to sink two with a two-handed shot from out court.

Bradren, however, got three points to pull the students ahead for the last time.

Most of the students got a big kick out of Coach Pierson's semi-football tactics, (he is the football coach for the high school) and

Wilmington College Cage Coach Quits

WILMINGTON, March 21—(P)—Chet Marshall, coach of the Wilmington College basketball team, last night announced his resignation as Quaker mentor.

Marshall announced his resignation at a banquet given for this year's team which won 14 games and lost nine, the best Wilmington record since World War II. He said he was quitting to study at Indiana University for his doctor's degree.

Marshall came to Wilmington in 1948 from West Virginia Wesleyan where he was an outstanding center.

Selection of Walt Hobbie, high scoring forward, as the most valuable player on this year's Valmington team, also was announced at the banquet. Hobbie, who hails from New Holland, holds the all-time Wilmington scoring record for four years with 1,339 points and the one-season record of 467 points.

Team members elected Carl Senne of Sabina and Tom Kirkpatrick of Pleasant Ridge, Mich., as co-captains of next season's team.

DON'T THINK the WHS teachers are just a bunch of fuddy-duddies. Ron Guinn executes a masterful hook for a bucket as the faculty team beat the senior boys team, 25 to 21, Tuesday night. Jimmy Johnson, a senior, stands right under the basket. In the background (left to right) are Roddy Beaver, Bill Chase, Bill Clift (teacher behind Chase) Bob Brumfield, a teacher and Dick Eckle. Ball Players Want Voice in Czar Choice

(By The Associated Press)
Baseball's front office executives generally adopted a conciliatory attitude today towards the idea that the players as well as the owners, be given a vote in naming a successor to A. B. Chandler as commissioner.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, assured the players their interests will be protected "regardless of who is commissioner."

Freddie Hutchinson, Detroit pitcher and player-representative for the American League, broached the player-vote-for-commissioner idea on Monday.

GOING IS ROUGH

MIAMI Fla., March 21—(P)—Tommy Brown, leading candidate for Brooklyn's regular left field berth, is finding the going rough in exhibition games. Brown has failed to collect a hit in his last 20 official times at bat.

BLACKWELL PITCHING

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21—(P)—Ewell Blackwell is due to work six innings today when Cincinnati's Reds return here for their lone spring exhibition game with the New York Giants.

The Reds got their come-uppance from St. Louis Cardinals yesterday. The Redbirds whipped the Rhinelanders 4-3 in ten innings after two straight Cincinnati victories.

The defeat was the third straight suffered at the hands of the Cards, whom the Reds hope to beat out of a first-division berth this season.

Stan Musial homered in two runs for St. Louis in the initial frame.

INDIANS COOL OFF

BURBANK, Cal., March 21—(P)—In the old days, the Cleveland Indians were known as a Hot Spring club that got colder as the regular season progressed.

So far this season, they can be called only a cold spring club. Before today's game with the St. Louis Browns, they have won two games and lost six against major league clubs. Their overall record is six losses in 11 exhibition games.

Yesterday, they hit bottom by letting the St. Louis Browns win their first major league practice contest, 6 to 5, on an 11th inning homer by Tommy Upton, a .23

Father 30,000 Times And That's Some Bull
COLUMBUS, March 21 —(AP)—Dunloggin Dark Master, the prize bull, has been a "daddy" more than 30,000 times.
Dick Kellogg, manager of the Central Ohio Breeding Association which owns the eight-year-old bull, says most of the 30,000 offsprings resulted from artificial insemination since December, 1948.

96 Youths Are Lions Guests

Annual Banquet
Held at Club Here

It was the night for the kids Tuesday night when the Washington C. H. Lions Club held its annual Father, Son and Daughter Banquet at the Country Club.

There were 96 youngsters and 77 club members on hand for the big affair.

Providing the entertainment for the youths was David Brizius, a student at Greenfield High School and an Eagle Scout.

Brizius and his assistant, Dick Feagan, also of Greenfield, staged a short magic show while another Greenfield youth, "Wild Bill" Lytle, dressed in cowboy dress, sang and played some songs on a guitar and harmonica.

Each child in attendance at the banquet received a favor which included bubble gum, candy and theatre tickets.

Two youngsters—Shirley Shoemaker and Deborah Everhart—got a rabbit apiece.

The committee which planned the big event included Paul Van Voorhis, chairman; John Briener, Jim Chakares, and Lawrence Grim. Chakares introduced the young magician.

Dr. Joseph M. Herbert, Washington C. H. physician, was introduced as a new member of the Lions Club.

Good Friday Services Set

Special Good Friday services have been planned by the Fayette County Ministerial Association for this coming Friday. They will be held in the First Presbyterian Church in Washington C. H. The last seven words of Christ will be the theme of the talks.

All residents of the county have been invited to attend the services, which will start at 12 noon and last until 2:45 P. M. There will be seven 20-minute services during this time with a different minister for each of the talks.

Employers in the city plan to allow their workers time off to attend the Good Friday services.

A special mixed choir from the high school have made plans to sing two numbers during one of the 20-minute services. The choir is under the direction of William Bowman.

Mrs. Dora Summers

Dies in Madison Mills

Mrs. Dora Summers, 83, died Tuesday at her home in Madison Mills. She had been a resident of the Madison Mills community practically all her life.

She leaves a brother, Frank Traub and a sister, Miss Della Traub, both of near Madison Mills. Her husband Frank preceded her in death several years ago.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 P. M. at the Madison Mills Methodist Church, with Rev. Guy Tucker in charge. Friends may call at the Snyder Funeral Home in Mt. Sterling. Burial will be made in the Madison Mills Cemetery.

Jeff Lions Have Farmers As Guests

Twenty-four farmers in the Jeffersonville area were guests of the Jeffersonville Lions Club at their meeting, held Tuesday night in the Home Restaurant.

They heard an explanation of recent changes which have been made in extending social security benefits to farm help and the self-employed businessmen.

Offering the explanation was Gilbert Barth, field representative for the social security administration in Columbus.

The meal consisted of ham, mashed potatoes, peas, salad, pie, coffee and hot rolls.

Farmer guests present at the meeting included the following:

Ancil Creamer, Richard Craig, Glenn McCoy, Harry Craig, Roy Fultz, Lester Smith, Max Allen, Harlin Hoppes, Raymond Geers, Ralph Agle, W. B. Edwards, Milan Sanderson, Ernest Jenks, Leonard Slager, Ed McFadden, Frank Slager.

Lawrence Sharret, Harold Zimmerman, Joe Elliott, Loren Coe, Leonard Miller, Kermit Knox, Junior Slaughter and Bob Zimmerman.

County Lunches To Be Discussed

An all-day meeting of dietitians and food handlers from the county schools Thursday at Madison Mills will wind up a research project on the lunch rooms, being conducted by Mrs. Jessie Oert of Ohio State University.

Since last fall, Mrs. Oert has been making periodic inspections of the lunch rooms to check on the various methods used in preparing and serving food.

Thursday's session will include demonstrations on tips for preparing the student's meals as well as planning menus more economically.

First session will be held in the morning from 10 o'clock to 12 noon. The afternoon meeting will start about 1 o'clock and last till 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Oert is at present working under a fellowship from the development fund of the university in home economics.

A great deal of interest has been shown in the project, and it is estimated there will be about 20 persons attending Thursday's meeting.

The Old Home Town

Court House Records

were taken to provide safe storage for the records, so that unnecessary files would not occupy valuable storage space.

As result of the information obtained by Acton, and the fact that none of the old records can be destroyed, it is expected that the commissioners will take steps to provide safe storage for the records and reduce the fire hazards which have long existed in the attic of the Court House.

Some of the papers are loose and others are in such condition that fire, once started, would spread rapidly in the building.

Other fire hazards in the attic are to be removed in accordance with recommendations of Fire Chief George Hall.

The commissioners recently authorized the purchase of four new fire extinguishers for use in the Court House and county jail.

So This Is Spring

No warming was in prospect for the snow-covered and chilled north central region until at least Thursday afternoon. The cold air moderated as it moved into eastern and southern states.

SNOWBOUND RELIEF
MINNEAPOLIS, March 21 —(AP)—Snowplows finally caught up with the wind last night and freed many western and southern Minnesota communities trapped behind hard-crusts drifts in sub-zero weather.

Civil air patrol ski-planes, working with the Red Cross, kept up their food, fuel and medical missions to farms on secondary roads which still were snow-locked.

Winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour fell off last night, giving highway crews their first opportunity to clear main routes since the week end storm piled more than a foot of snow over the area.

Deadline Near For Listing Personal Tax

Time is getting short for listing personal property for taxation, and there are still approximately 900 persons who have not listed their property.

March 31 at 4 P. M. is the deadline for listing personal property, and April 10 is the last day for paying the first installment of taxes on the personal property.

County Auditor Ulric T. Acton said Wednesday that 1,404 persons had listed their property, and that the total number in the county is approximately 2,300.

A penalty of 10 percent is provided where property is not listed by the final date.

Some busy days are anticipated at the county auditor's office, where a number of deputies are assisting in the work.

To date few persons have had extensive waits for assistance at the auditor's office, but those who wait until the last few days will probably find a further wait is necessary before they can be given assistance.

Two Arrests Made

One red light runner and one plain drunk were picked up by the police over Tuesday.

The red light runner was Ruth Anna Stowe of Highland who went through the light on Columbus Avenue at Eastside School, and left $10 for appearance in police court.

Mrs. R. T. Thorpe Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Mary Catherine Barnhart Thorpe, 83, who was born in Jamestown, died Tuesday at 7:30 A. M. at St. Anthony's Hospital in Columbus. She had been taken to the hospital March 11 from her home in Sabina.

She was a member of the Sabina Methodist Church and the WSCS.

Her husband R. T. Thorpe, preceded her in death in Feb. 1950. She leaves the following: two sons, Dr. L. R. Thorpe and Dr. M. B. Thorpe, both of Columbus; one daughter, Mrs. Howard Cline of Adrian, Mich., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 P. M. Friday at the Sabina Methodist Church. The services, which will be private, will be under the direction of Rev. Ray W. Huff of the Sabina Methodist Church. Friends may call at the late home from 1 P. M. to 9 P. M. Thursday. Friends and relatives are asked to omit flowers.

Interment will be made in the Sabina Cemetery.

Salvation Army Asks Persons To Call Early

Persons who wish to give anything to the Salvation Army truck when it arrives in Washington C. H. Thursday should contact Mrs. W. E. Roberts at 817 Yeoman Street or call 2-2091 before 9 A. M.

"There isn't any way for me to contact the truck after it leaves here," Mrs. Roberts said. So that is why she has asked persons to call early.

Baking bread is one of the oldest of human arts, dating back to at least the Stone Age.
